The 16-year-old protagonist of the film, she was born and raised in the Abnegation faction, but chooses Dauntless because she feels it is who she truly is. However, her aptitude test was inconclusive, and she is "Divergent" - a fate that is mysterious but also dangerous. Once in Dauntless, she begins again under a new name. She is strong-willed, courageous, and reluctant to show weakness, particularly during her initiation into Dauntless. While she thrives in her new faction, she still feels strong ties to the family she left behind.

Tris and Caleb's mother. She was the daughter of a Dauntless leader and Divergent herself, but her mother warned her that people were searching for Divergents and she needed to escape, so she moved to Abnegation to begin a new life. Though she appears nothing but selfless and kindhearted, she has an inner core of strength that is revealed to Tris at the end of the film.

A central antagonist in the film, he transferred from Candor to Dauntless. During initiation, he mocks Tris and her friends along with his lackeys Molly and Drew. He is physically strong and vicious, and typically places second only to Edward in all of the initiation fights. Peter is cold, cruel, tough, and ruthless, determined to do whatever it takes to come on top.

The initiation instructor for the Dauntless transfer initiates, including Tris, who eventually becomes her primary love interest. To most he is known by a name given to him because during his own Dauntless initiation it was revealed that he only has four fears. Just like Tris, he was born Abnegation, but chose to transfer to Dauntless to escape the abuse of his father. At first, he has an elusive, mysterious personality, and it takes a while for him to allow himself to become close to Tris. He is very protective of his loved ones.

This tattooist administers Tris's aptitude test at the beginning of the film and realizes that she is Divergent. She is also a tattoo artist in the Dauntless compound, and she is said to have transferred from Erudite with her brother, who was killed for being Divergent. She has a tattoo of a hawk on the back of her neck, symbolizing the sun and reminding her how she overcame her fear of the dark.

This girl was born in Candor, but transfers to Dauntless and becomes fast friends with Tris when she helped her jump onto the moving train in their first initiate test. She begins a relationship with Will later on in the book. Because of her Candor upbringing, she can be very blunt and honest, but she is brave, witty, and loyal.

The leader of Erudite faction, selected solely based on her IQ score. She is the main antagonist in the film, and seeks to form an alliance between Dauntless and Erudite against Abnegation.

This guy transferred from Erudite, but eventually became a Dauntless initiation leader along with Four. Because Four finished first in their own initiation class and he second, he has hated him ever since. During training, he is extremely harsh on the initiates. He is cruel and emphasizes cutthroat strength over intelligence and teamwork.
